The House of War

The Struggle between Christendom and Islam

Simon Mayall

A powerful new history detailing the most significant military clashes between Islam and Christendom over the 1300 years of the Muslim caliphate.

From the taking of Jerusalem in the 7th century AD by Caliph Umar, to the collapse of the Ottoman Empire following the end of World War I, Christian popes, emperors and kings, and Muslim caliphs and sultans were locked in a 1300-year battle for political, military, ideological, economic and religious supremacy.

In this new study of the era, Simon Mayall focuses on some of the most significant clashes that punctuate this centuries-long struggle, including key events such as the taking and re-taking of Jerusalem, the fall of Constantinople and the World War I battle of Megiddo which heralded the collapse of the Ottoman Empire itself.

The House of War offers a wide, sweeping historical narrative, encompassing the broad historical and religious context of this period.

Simon Mayall is a former soldier in the British Army, and an acknowledged expert on the history of the Middle East, and of the Crusades. His last appointments were as the British Government's Defence Senior Adviser for the Middle East, and the Prime Minister's Security Envoy to Iraq and the Kurdish Region. He is currently Chair of the Council of the National Army Museum.

Forged in War

A military history of Russia from its beginnings to today

Mark Galeotti

A masterful account of how war and insecurity, both real and perceived, has driven Russia's destiny, including the disastrous invasion of Ukraine.

Putin retains his stranglehold on his position in Russia despite an almost ruinous invasion of Ukraine. The answer as to how and why can be found in Russian history as detailed by Mark Galeotti in this fascinating book. With no naturally defensible borders, and environmental factors constraining its economy, Russia has been pitched against the pre-eminent military powers of the age across the centuries, and often at a technological disadvantage. To respond to these challenges, it has had to sit heavily on the backs of its people, and so war – and the need to be able to fight it – has shaped its evolution, from tsars to commissars and presidents.

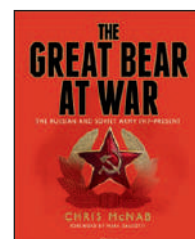

From medieval times to the modern day, the national identity has been forged in the furnace of war. Packed with contemporary accounts, Forged in War strips away the myth to give an insider's view on Russia's past and present.

Mark Galeotti is a scholar of Russian security affairs with a career spanning academia, government service and business. He heads the Mayak Intelligence consultancy and is an Honorary Professor at University College London's School of Slavonic and East European Studies as well as holding fellowships with RUSI, the Council of Geostrategy and the Institute of International Relations Prague. He is the author of over 25 books including Putin's Wars (Osprey, 2022).

Barbarossa 1941

An Atlas of German Army Situation Maps

Kevin Boylan

Featuring original German military maps, this is a beautifully presented atlas of the 1941 Operation Barbarossa campaign.

Operation Barbarossa, Germany's surprise assault on the Soviet Union in June 1941, aimed at nothing less than the complete destruction of Communist Russia. The German forces were massive and the invasion took the Red Army completely off guard. It was the one period when the Germans had a chance of achieving victory – but the events of the campaign ultimately reversed the fortunes of the Third Reich.

This atlas uses the contemporary daily situation maps produced by the German Army's General Staff. The 108 maps show the configuration of the front line and the locations of major Axis combat formations, as well as the deployments and movements of Soviet combat units as the German military intelligence understood them. The maps are supported by a detailed commentary summarizing and analyzing the operations depicted, tracing the day-to-day progress of the fighting on the Eastern Front and providing a clear historical and geographical picture of one of the pivotal campaigns of World War II.

Kevin Boylan earned his BA in History from Rutgers University and his PhD from Temple University and is currently employed as an official historian by the US Army Center for Military History in Washington, DC.

Hero City

Leningrad 1943-44

Prit Buttar

One of the greatest ever sieges is masterfully brought to life by a leading expert on the Eastern Front.

At the height of World War II the people of Leningrad endured a bitter 900-day siege, struggling against bombing, shelling, and starvation. But by simply enduring the siege in the face of impossible odds, Russian soldiers and civilians beat the Germans. By the end of 1943 the German forces, themselves broken by deprivations and extreme weather, began to pull back. Here was the opportunity the Soviet forces had been waiting for. The Red Army launched a decisive attack that broke through and ended the siege. Their determination to hold out has become a hugely significant part of Russian history, the echoes of the battle helping to define both a country and its politics.

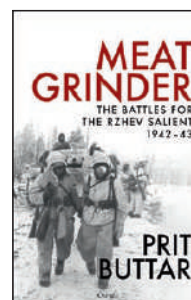

This compelling history uses original Russian source material to vividly describe the deprivations visited upon those trapped. But it also details the tactical successes and strategic failures of both sides as well as the appalling war crimes that have forever stained the ground in and around this historic city.

Prit Buttar is a leading expert on the Eastern Front in 20th century military history. Prit originally studied medicine at Oxford and London before joining the British Army as a doctor. He latterly worked as a GP for several years. He now writes exclusively from his home in rural Scotland.

Midway

The Pacific War's Most Famous Battle

Mark Stille

A detailed re-examination of Midway, one of the most significant battles in the Pacific Theater of World War II.

In April 1942, the Combined Fleet of the Imperial Japanese Navy was at the zenith of its power. It had struck a severe blow against the US Navy at Pearl Harbor in December 1941, before spearheading the Japanese advance through Southeast Asia and across the South Pacific. Only a few months later, in June 1942, it suffered a decisive defeat off Midway Atoll with the strategic initiative in the Pacific passing to the US Navy.

Midway is the most famous naval battle of the Pacific War, and one of the most mythologized. The traditional view of the battle is of a heavily outnumbered American force snatching victory in the face of overwhelming odds. Pacific War expert Mark Stille argues that this view is simplistic and, in many respects, wrong, and that the American victory was not a product of good fortune, and a thorough analysis of the two sides shows that a Japanese defeat was the more likely outcome. This new study provides an unparalleled level of insight into one of the decisive moments of the Pacific War.

Mark Stille is the author of numerous Osprey titles focusing on naval history in the Pacific. He recently concluded a nearly 40-year career in the intelligence community, including tours on the faculty of the Naval War College, on the Joint Staff and on US Navy ships. He received his BA in History from the University of Maryland and also holds an MA from the Naval War College.

USS Princeton

The Life and Loss of 'Sweet P'

David Leick

An in-depth history of the US Navy's light aircraft carrier the USS Princeton and its operational exploits in the Pacific Theater of World War II.

The USS Princeton (CVL-23) joined the Pacific fleet in August 1943 and was immediately put to work as the United States was assembling new ships and crews for the drive across the Central Pacific. Princeton participated in initial Central Pacific raids, played a key role in conducting multiple strikes against the Japanese bastion at Rabaul, and then joined Task Force 58, The Fast Carrier Task Force, for the drive across the Central Pacific culminating in the invasion of the Philippines, where the ship was lost.

In 'Sweet P', David Leick uses first-hand accounts from archives such as the Naval History and Heritage Command to examine the campaigns, aircraft, tactics, command decisions, and life on board the ship during the American Pacific campaign against Japan from early 1943 until Princeton's tragic demise in October 1944.

David Leick enlisted in the United States Marine Corps following High School, serving as a Marine Rifleman, Reconnaissance Marine, and Marine Scout/Sniper. Following his honorable discharge he attended California State University, Chico, where he earned a master's degree and went into teaching. David now writes full time and lives in Lincoln, California.

Pride and Fall

The British Army in Afghanistan, 2001–2014

Sergio Miller

A detailed new account of the British military campaign in Afghanistan from 2001 to 2014.

Following the 9/11 attacks, the British Government supported the initial US invasion of Afghanistan in 2001, and also committed troops to Kabul from 2002 onwards. However, following the expansion southwards, Britain was drawn into a lengthy military campaign against a fierce insurgency.

The British commitment to Helmand Province saw a battlegroup from the Parachute Regiment deploy to in January 2006 with the hope they could “leave in three years and without firing one shot”. The reality was very different. From 2006 through to 2014, a succession of British brigade-sized task forces rotated through Helmand on six-month tours. When they finally withdrew in 2014, British forces had lost 456 killed and over 2,000 wounded, and the Taliban were resurgent.

Sergio Miller served throughout the campaign in Defence Intelligence in Whitehall, and this book is his attempt to answer the many questions surrounding the conflict.

Sergio Miller is a former Regular and Reservist Intelligence Corps officer. He served in Defence Intelligence in the MOD as an intelligence analyst and was privileged to view the Afghan War from the inside. Sergio is a regular contributor to the British Army's house journal British Army Review, and writes regularly for British Military Blogging Site The Wavell Room.

The Farthest Valley

Escaping the Chinese Trap at Chosin Reservoir 1950

Joseph Wheelan

A history of the legendary extraction of the Fifth and Seventh Marines from a Chinese trap, told for the first time using Chinese sources.

Knee-deep in snow, and under a leaden sky, American Marines thousands of miles from home watched yet more snow settle onto the frozen ground, glittering in the fading light. Suddenly, the still Korean night roared to life with the sound of Chinese mortar fire. The Fifth and Seventh Marine Regiments were besieged and surrounded by the Chinese 9th Army Group in a surprise attack at Chosin Reservoir in what is now North Korea. Vastly outnumbered and outgunned, defeat and death seemed guaranteed. Their improbable escape after a week of brutal combat required all the Marines' fighting skills and supreme combat leadership.

The Farthest Valley uses first-hand accounts and Chinese military documents to give a unique perspective on Chinese strategic and tactical failings which allowed the Marines to escape. This is a two-part history of the Marines' incredible tenacity and of woeful combat leadership as the Chinese gambled away their men's lives and ultimately victory.

Joseph Wheelan is the author of ten books on 19th- and 20th-century American history including Midnight in the Pacific (2017), Bloody Okinawa (2020) and Bitter Peleliu (2022). Previously, he was an editor and reporter for The Associated Press for 24 years. He lives in Cary, North Carolina.

Steel Lobsters

Crown, Commonwealth, and the Last Knights in England

Myke Cole

A dramatic history of the Steel Lobsters, Sir Arthur Hesilrige's Regiment of Horse, in the English Civil War – the last fully armoured knights in England.

The 17th-century battlefield ushered in a new era, with formed musketeers and pistol-wielding cavalry gradually taking over from the knights and men-at-arms that had dominated the European battlefield. Based on a detailed study of the primary sources, Steel Lobsters tells the story of this transition through the history of the last fully armoured knights in England.

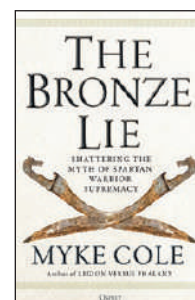

Myke Cole, an award-winning novelist, historian, and veteran, examines the life and times of Sir Arthur Hesilrige and his Regiment of Horse, known as 'the Lobsters' as they were encased in plate armour. Steel Lobsters covers the full history of England's last knights, from the seeds of their creation in Hesilrige's experience as a young cavalry officer, to their final defeat and decision to abandon their armour in 1643. It provides lavish detail on arms, armour, and tactics, but also covers the human story of Sir Arthur Hesilrige, the men who served under him, and even those who opposed him.

Myke Cole has served in war and crisis response and currently works as a security and intelligence consultant in the private sector. He has published extensively in military history, including The Killing Ground, Legion Versus Phalanx and The Bronze Lie for Osprey. Myke also appeared on CBS' hit TV show Hunted. He lives in Hudson Valley, NY.

Brotherhood of the Flying Coffin

The Glider Pilots of World War II

Scott McGaugh

The first major history of the American glider pilots, the forgotten heroes of World War II, by a New York Times bestselling author. A story of no guns, no engines and no second chances.

Author Scott McGaugh distills war down to individual young men climbing into defenseless gliders covered in reinforced fabric, ready to trust the towing aircraft that would pull them into enemy territory by a single cable less than one inch wide. Based on the after-action reports, journals, oral histories, and letters home of these American pilots, this book reveals every terrifying minute of their missions.

They were all volunteers for a specialized duty that their own government projected would have a 50 percent casualty rate. None faltered. In every major European invasion of the war, they led the way. These glider pilots played a pivotal role in liberating the West from tyranny, from the day the Allies invaded Occupied Europe to the day Germany finally surrendered. Yet the story of these anonymous heroes is virtually unknown. Here it is told in full – a story that epitomizes courage and sacrifice.

Scott McGaugh is author of a number of books including New York Times bestseller Surgeon in Blue (Arcade, 2013) and Midway Magic (CDS/Perseus, 2004). McGaugh served as the founding marketing director of the USS Midway Museum in San Diego, the most visited floating ship museum in the world.

The Panzers of Prokhorovka

The Myth of Hitler's Greatest Armoured Defeat

Ben Wheatley

This ground-breaking study of the battles of Kursk and Prokhorovka transforms our understanding of one of the most famous battles of the Second World War.

Widely mythologized as the most critical tank battle of the Second World War, Prokhorovka is thought of as history's largest armoured clash, where Hitler's elite panzer force was annihilated and Germany's offensive against the Kursk salient stopped in its tracks. Russia's victory over the vaunted SS troops, claimed on 12 July 1943, has thus been remembered as one of the key turning points of the entire conflict.

The Panzers of Prokhorovka challenges this narrative. Based on ground-breaking archival research and supported by previously unpublished images of the battlefield, it argues that German armoured losses were in fact negligible and a fresh approach is required to understand Prokhorovka.

Dr Ben Wheatley studied Modern European History at the University of East Anglia (doctorate in 2014) and has been an Honorary Research Fellow at the university since 2016. He is a former Teaching Fellow of the Defence Studies Department, King's College London, teaching at the Joint Services Command and Staff College. Publications include British Intelligence and Hitler's Empire in the Soviet Union, 1941–1945 (Bloomsbury Academic, 2017).
